bKash is a financial service in Bangladesh that allows users to make financial transactions using their mobile phones. More than depositing money into your mobile accounts, you can also access a variety of services, especially moving and receiving local money. You can also use the app to make payments for your utilities, such as mobile accounts - both prepaid and paid after payment. bKash operates under the authority of Bangladesh Bank as a subsidiary of BRAC Bank Ltd. Note, however, that this app is only available to users who live in Bangladesh. How to start working with the bKash app? There are two ways to create an account in bKash. You can go to any bKash agent and customer care center and have them set it up for you. Doing so is free and simple. You just have to provide a phone number. Once your account is created, you can continue to download and install the app. If you don't want to visit an agent, you can set up an account yourself. There's a self-registration feature in the app where you can create yours. However, instead of the phone number, you must provide your national ID. The app is set by default on Bangla, but you can change it to English in the language setting. To see the menu options, you must click the app icon. Here, you can also choose to enable or disable the voice guideline. You can also access the Help menu and bKash Quick Help dialer. How do I use the app for transactions? As Noe pointed out, the bKash app offers convenient banking. With this, you can transfer money from your account or card without stepping foot in any bank. You can also charge your mobile phone balance and even pay for bills. Still, you can use it for shopping. Using the app for the Hennell deal is super easy. To check your balance, you only need to click the Balance button and the update will be displayed within a second. To send money to any bKash number, just tap send money. Of course, you must enter the number or select it from your contacts. In case of payments or cash, you can use the Scan QR code button on the home screen. You can also enter the merchant number to make payments if you don't want to use QR codes. With that, you can press them whenever you have to pay. You can also ask any bKash user to send you money by tapping the request money button. Just add your contact number and put the amount. Users can also follow shortcuts to their common movements to make them faster. Is bKash safe? bKash provides its users with a secure platform for any financial transaction. It uses PIN security protection. With this, no one can open your account, even if your phone is stolen. As for financial security, the app will automatically disconnect you after a certain period of inactivity. You will need to sign in again with your bKash pin if you want to make any deal. However, while the app has no security issues, the same can't be said with its usability. In the latest update, users reported difficulty opening the app. They often receive an error message every time they try to log into their account. Instead, the app takes years to provide the token number during the payment transaction if it fails. The interface also took a wrong turn with the update. Logon and registration are on the same button. The Inbox and Translate transaction list disappear after the update. bKash also requires the use of your SIM. Cashless bKash convenience deals is a great tool to have if you want a more comfortable financial deal. With the app, you can send and receive money in just a few clicks. More, you can also pay for your bills from a store without having to pay cash. There are some moot issues due to the app's counterintuitive interface, but it's a small price to pay with the convenience it provides.
